Join the DuPage County Health Department Medical Reserve Corps (DCHD MRC)

Local health, safety, and preparedness begins with you!

What is the Medical Reserve Corps?

The Medical Reserve Corps (MRC) is a national network of volunteers who help make their communities stronger and healthier during disasters and every day. Volunteers are organized into community-based units that work to improve local emergency response capabilities, reduce potential public health risks and vulnerabilities, and build community preparedness and resilience. In DuPage, our volunteers would be focused on community preparedness through education and outreach. DCHD MRC volunteers may be involved in assisting in preparedness trainings, such as CPR/AED or response activities such as assisting at a resource center after a disaster.

Who Can Volunteer?

Anyone 18 and older is eligible to apply to be a volunteer. DCHD MRC volunteers are community members who want to engage in public health response and wish to volunteer their time and expertise. Persons with public health, medical, educational, and behavioral health backgrounds are encouraged to apply. The specific role that volunteers play and participate in will depend upon your background, interests, and skills, as well as the needs of the MRC unit and the community.

Why Should I Volunteer?

- Communities benefit from having MRC volunteers ready to respond to emergencies.
- You can be a part of an organized and trained team with a strong sense of mission and purpose.
- It’s a way to offer and improve your professional skill, knowledge, and expertise.
- It’s a chance to give back to the community, helping to keep your family, friends, and neighbors safe and healthy, particularly during times of need.
